- Internal audit

- Stock audit
- Special purpose audit

- Attestation and certification

Our audit process is standardized to suit each business's requirements to meet our audit objective and primarily comprise of the following:

- Audit planning
- Fieldwork
- Implementation
- Amendments
- Finalization
- Recommendations

External Audit

As part of one of our principal services, our auditors perform statutory audit for mainland Limited Liability Companies, Free Zone Companies and Offshore Companies. External audit is also referred to as Statutory audit. We are appointed by the shareholders of the company and report to them on the financial statements of the company. Our report comprises of independent audit report where we express an opinion by providing reasonable assurance on the financial statements as to whether it presents fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of the company as at the reporting date and of its financial performance and its cash flows for the year then ended in accordance with the applicable financial reporting framework.

We conduct our audit in accordance to the International Standards on Auditing on the financial statements of the company prepared in accordance to the International Financial Reporting Standards. We also report on other legal and regulatory requirements of compliance of the company with relevant laws and regulations. We are registered auditors in all the major free zones in the UAE. The major Free Zones are listed below:

Internal Audit

Internal Audit is an independent, objective assurance and consulting engagement designed to achieve the organisation objectives by adding value to the operational and financial effectiveness of the controls and processes of the key areas of the business. We are engaged by the Management of the company to evaluate the operating effectiveness of the management policies and procedures and its implementation to ensure that transparency and accountability is maintained at each process which safeguards the assets of the organisation and improves the quality of financial reporting and processes. In internal audit, we provide an assurance to the Management on the effectiveness of the processes (like internal controls, risk management and corporate governance) set upon to achieve the business' objectives and goals.

To preserve the integrity and independence of audits, we maintain a delicate balance between offering advice and providing opinions about a process, system, account balance or other subject matter. The size and complexity of internal audit functions are as diverse as the range of operating environments, risk appetites and business and audit objectives that a company can have. The scope of the audit can also vary from project to project within a company, depending on an auditor's focus.

The modern concept of the internal audits gravitates around the notion of business risks, around their identification, assessment and monitoring. Due to this reason, it is also referred to as the system of internal audit and risk management as a unit system where the risk is the common thread. Risk-based internal audit is concerned with providing the assurance that the management has actions and controls in place, to meet organizational objectives while addressing uncertainties and staying within the boundaries.

Internal Audit Continued...

The risk-based internal audit framework includes seven related components: Understand, Identify, Assess, Plan, Perform, Report, and Monitor. Our focus remains on approaching the Understand, Identify and Assess components of the framework in an innovative way, improving the overall value the internal audit can provide to the organization, instead of testing the same internal controls over and over again.

Although different terms may be used, the risk management process is essentially the same regardless of the framework used, which can be summarized in five components that need to be present in any risk management framework or process:

- Identify - the threats to meeting objectives and map to specifically defined risks
- Analyze - the level of inherent risk for each risk
- Evaluate - the current actions and controls in place, to reduce the risks to an acceptable level
- Mitigate - to determine other actions and controls, which may be necessary to reduce the risk to an acceptable level if the current actions and controls are not effective
- Monitor - the effectiveness of the actions and controls.

Our qualified team works together with business owners, directors and managers to assess the implementation and effective maintenance of the systems of the governance, risk management and internal controls.

Compliance Audit

A compliance audit is a systematic, independent and documented verification process used to objectively obtain and evaluate the audit evidences to determine whether specified criteria are met. It is different from an external audit since the auditor is not forming an opinion on the financial report but on the client's compliance with the specified criteria. The objective of a compliance engagement is to enable the auditor to express a conclusion on whether an entity has complied in all material respects, with requirements measured by the suitable criteria.

The responsibility for an entity's compliance with requirements, measured by the suitable criteria, rests with the responsible party. A compliance engagement performed by an auditor does not relieve the responsible party from its obligations to ensure compliance with the requirements measured by the suitable criteria.

Our auditors work closely with you as a business to ensure that as an organization, your business adheres to the terms and conditions of a contract or meet with the certain regulatory requirements for industry related certifications like ISO. It ensures that the business has complied with the rules, regulations and requirements, in all material respects, measured by the concerned, appropriate criteria or governing rules of private, government, or semi-government bodies.

Compliance audit process

- Understanding of businesses and compliance environment
- Understanding requirements and appropriate criteria
- Understanding internal compliance environment
- Assessing areas and risks of non-compliance
- Developing and evaluating procedures and audit approach to respond to risk
- Performing necessary audit procedures
- Evaluating evidence
- Discussion with the management
- Preparing and issuing relevant reports.

Stock Audit

Stocks comprise of major asset of an organization which involve in large volume of manufacturing and trading activities. Stocks are more prone to risks of misappropriation and require due care and attention. In today's era many businesses are engaging in operations and trade activities across borders through multiple locations, some even with varied channel partners which pose a challenge for inventory management.

We, as part of the stock audit can assist the Management in performing independent stock count to compare the physical stocks with the book stocks. We can also conduct stock audits for banks and other financial institutions who have extended credit facilities to the businesses against the hypothecation of physical goods and business assets.

Our stock audits include:

- Recognition of inventory and work in process

Special Purpose Audit

In a fast-changing business environment, it is important to understand that the businesses may require to conduct a special purpose audit due to different operational, structural and strategic reasons to achieve its business goals and expected growth. A special purpose audit refers to the audit of areas such as real estate developers' trust accounts, a requirement due to the listing of a company, merger & acquisition and demerger to name a few. It might also be needed for royalties, grants funding and a condition to a franchise, contract or licensing agreement, and to support claims made towards the incentives in various industries.

Special purpose audit may be conducted in the following cases:

- Royalty audit
- Lawsuit against the company
- In relation to merger & acquisition
- Listing of a company
- Profit projection audit
- Turnover audits
- Completion audits
- Special audit based on the management requirement

Liquidation Audit

A liquidation audit is an assurance that the information provided in the report is accurate and complete as well as how the assets have been realized and the obligations paid off. Whenever a company goes through a liquidation process, proper accounting of the company's assets, as well as the identification of the company's liabilities and objections from the creditors, becomes significantly important. During the liquidation proceedings, all the assets of the company are realized into cash, and the creditors are paid back while any remaining amount is distributed to the owners.

Whenever a company is closing its business or cancelling licenses, most of the free zone authorities and Economic Development Departments are requiring liquidation audit. A company cannot be closed unless the liquidation audit report is submitted to these authorities as it is a mandatory requirement. Free Zones in Dubai like the Dubai Multi Commodities Centre (DMCC), Jebel Ali Free Zone Authority (JAFZA), Dubai Silicon Oasis (DSO) and the Dubai Airport Free Zone Authority (DAFZA), all require liquidation audit from the registered auditors. Other free zones also have similar regulations related to company liquidation and liquidation audit before any company is closed.
